Sandwell Children's Trust does not pay bonuses, therefore there is no data to report for bonus payments.

Under legislation that came into force in April 2017, all employers with more than 250 employees are required to publish their gender pay gap. The Equalities Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information Regulation 2017) aims to tackle the gender pay gap that exists in organisations and provide transparency around gender pay gap reporting.

The causes of the gender pay gap are complex and overlapping and there is no single over-riding reason why the gender pay gap exists. However, evidence shows that part-time work, occupational segregation and the glass ceiling are the main drivers of the gender pay gap (Source: Human Rights Commission- Gender Pay Gap, 2017).

The mean gender pay gap for Sandwell Children's Trust is 7.3% and the median gender pay gap is 4.9%. The data published has been calculated in line with the reporting legislation. This includes calculating an hourly rate for all full pay relevant employees as at 5 April 2020

As this is the first time that Sandwell Children's Trust has been required to publish its gender pay gap, comparison with the public sector norms will only be made once all relevant employers have uploaded their data to the Government's website.

Sandwell Children's Trust can demonstrate that it pays men and women the same salary for work of equal value through the implementation of the Sandwell MBC Single Status agreement in 2010 and uses the nationally negotiated pay spine as the basis for its local grading structure.
